Spectrum Therapy Products is the manufacturing leader for the BAPS Biomechanical Ankle Platform System for ankle and knee rehabilitation. Our products are made in the USA and we are the market leader in the field of physical therapy, exercise therapy, rehabilitation and user-friendly home therapy.

Spectrum Therapy Products is the manufacturing leader offering the bio-mechanical advantage when it comes to ankle and knee rehabilitation. Our Products are made in the USA and we are the market leader in the field of physical therapy, exercise therapy, rehabilitation, and user-friendly home therapy with a full line of core stabilization products featuring the BAPS board.

We have been manufacturing and distributing the BAPS Board since 1986 and have been the innovator of this core concept from the day that Gary Gray who is known world-wide as the father of "functional rehabilitation" and Jerry Seel patented this concept into a functional piece of equipment that has been in the therapeutic rehabilitation arena for almost 30 years.

Spectrum Therapy is a product innovator and has strategically worked hand in hand with therapy professionals for 30 years to make the BAPS Board the standard of excellence in the marketplace. We can give you the bio-mechanical advantage when it comes to ankle and knee rehabilitation, athletic lower extremity conditioning, or range of motion, by increasing the development of your strength, balance, and center of gravity (COG) or core stabilization.

We are excited to introduce to you the new AIRBAPS which delivers exceptional balance, proprioception, stability vs. instability, and is fast becoming a staple in training and conditioning protocols.

We market our products primarily through an extensive network of dealers and catalogs as well as online.

Spectrum Therapy Products is committed to providing the highest value and best experience. We look forward to working with you and will continue to make every effort to support your therapeutic challenges.
